PRICE TWO CENTS

LIQUOR LICENSE TAX DUE SHORTLY

On Account of Prohibition Act Dealers Will Pay for Right to Retail for the Last Time.

LICENSES EXPIRE ON MAY 8

City Will Receive Approximately $7,000, Rebate for Month and One Week to be Given.

For the last time—unless the statewide prohibition bill should be declared unconstitutional or at some future date should be repealed—the retail liquor dealers in this city will purchase their licenses from the city treasurer next month. All licenses here expire on May 8. On the day before they expire the applicants will go before the county commissioners and ask that their licenses be renewed. In the city there are fifteen retail liquor dealers and three brewery agencies. After April 8, 1918 all of these will go out of business.

As the state will go into the prohibition column before another year passes, the county commissioners and the city will exact license taxes only for the time that the sale of liquor is permitted within the state. The county license tax for retailers is $200 while the city tax is $500. The brewery agencies pay $50 a year to the city for the right to do business.

Applicants for licenses will receive a rebate one month and one week. This means that the city will derive a little less than usual from this source of revenue and will receive about $7,000. The county commissioners will also pro-rate the license tax according to the time that the saloons will actually be in business before the new law takes effect.

The applicants for licenses are required to advertise for a given number of days, stating just where their places of business are located and a detailed description of the size and the arrangement of the rooms. The applications to which are attached a copy of the advertisement will be filed with the county commissioners and will be acted on at the regular meeting the first Monday in May. After the county licenses are obtained the retailers and brewery agencies then procure their licenses from the city treasurer.

TANK OF ROAD OIL MAY BE ORDERED WITHIN A WEEK

City Clerk Burkart Receiving Orders From Residents—Oil is Applied Without Charge.

City Clerk Burkart is devoting considerable attention to the matter of oiling the streets and expects to have sufficient orders filed by the middle of next week to justify the placing of an order for one tank. For several years the city officials have been receiving the orders for street oil and by buying a tank at a lower price can be obtained than if the individual orders were filed. The city street department applies the oil without charge to the property owners. The average cost for a fifty-foot lot is $2.50, although a lot of that size abutting on a wide street must necessarily be assessed a little higher. It is believed that none of the assessments will exceed $3 for each fifty-foot lot.

Orders are now being received for less than one complete block. This plan was adopted as it is of little benefit to one property owner in a block to oil his street. The oiled streets in the past have given much satisfaction and among the streets to be treated this spring are those which were oiled in former years. Clerk Burkart says that orders should be filed as once as property owners desire to have the oil applied as soon as possible.

TO BEGIN WORK ON SIXTH STREET ROAD SHORTLY

Masters Construction Company Will Ship Equipment Here When Contract at Anderson is Finished.

W. P. Masters, of the Masters Construction Company, stated today that he expected to begin work on the Sixth street improvement in about three weeks. He said that the contract which his company has at Anderson would be completed by that time and that the machinery would be shipped to this city as soon as the work was completed. The contract is for the improvement with concrete of the road extending from Bell's Ford bridge to the city limits and through the city on Sixth street to the east corporation line. All summer will be required to finish the contract.

Mr. Masters finds that on account of the freight car shortage some trouble may be experienced in getting the necessary cement for the local contract. He took up the matter with the cement concern in Louisville and was told that the mills were five hundred cars behind with their orders. The company's representative, however, assured the local contractor that every effort would be made to supply the cement as needed. Mr. Masters expects to receive the first shipment in a few days.

YOUTHFUL CONVICT USED AS WITNESS AT BLOOMFIELD

Arthur Jerrell, Reformatory Guard, Brings Lad Here Enroute to Jeffersonville.

Arthur Jerrell, a guard at the Indiana Reformatory, was here today enroute to Jeffersonville. He had in his charge Wilbur Clark, aged sixteen, one of the young inmates at the Reformatory, who was taken to Bloomfield to appear as a witness. Jerrell and his man were here between two trains. The lad was sentenced to the Reformatory for the alleged theft of an automobile at Linton several weeks ago. The machine was recovered near Bloomfield, and the boy said that he had been induced to steal the automobile by an older friend whom he had met in Terre Haute. The Reformatory authorities are taking a special interest in the case of the lad, because of his age, and are giving him an educational training as well as instruction in a trade.

WOULD FILE NAMES OF DONORS FOR FLAG POLE IN LIBRARY

James Demas Believes Record Ought to be Made of Those Who Contribute for Marker.

James Demas, with whom the idea of erecting a permanent flag pole at the intersection of Second and Chestnut streets originated, believes that the names of those who contribute for the erection of the marker ought to be filed and proposes to place the books containing the names of the donors in the city library. His idea is that the flag pole would stand for years to come as a testimonial of the patriotism of the people of this city. He is receiving much encouragement in the plan and many citizens have told him that they will contribute to the fund.

In order to show that the base of the pole will not interfere with the movement of traction cars, Mr. Demas has placed a wooden form of specified size at the point where the marker would stand so that the public can see just how much space there would be for the interurban cars. He proposes to start the subscription fund immediately and believes the necessary amount will be raised immediately.

The ladies of the city are much interested in the work of this splendid organization and there is no doubt but that the membership will be large.

JOHN TURMAIL IS CALLED SUDDENLY

Member of Board of County Commissioners Dies at Home near Vallonia After Short Illness.

SUFFERS FAINTING ATTACK

Recovers in Short Time and Ends Came After He Had Retired—Funeral to be Held Sunday.

John Turmail, aged forty-five years, a member of the board of county commissioners, died about 11:45 o'clock Wednesday night at his home one and one-half miles south of Vallonia, after a few hours' illness with heart disease. He was apparently enjoying his usual rugged health until about 6 o'clock in the afternoon when he suffered a fainting spell while milking a cow. He revived in a short time, however, and when he retired about 8:30 o'clock he said he was feeling well. He slept soundly until about 11 o'clock when Mrs. Turmail heard him breathing heavily. She tried to arouse him and he failed to answer. His death occurred while his son was raising his head to a more comfortable position.

Mr. Turmail was born in Driftwood township June 9, 1871 and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Turmail. He spent his entire life in the vicinity of Vallonia and was a successful and progressive farmer. On November 22, 1896 he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Pollert, who with one son, Victor, and one daughter, survives him. He also leaves two brothers, George F. and William F. Turmail, and two sisters, Mrs. Lucinda Montel and Mrs. John Stuckwisch, all of Vallonia.

Mr. Turmail made friends rapidly and had a large acquaintance, especially in the vicinity where he spent his life. He was interested in public affairs and gave a great deal of his time to his duties as commissioner.

Mr. Turmail was engaged in several business enterprises in Driftwood township. He assisted in the organization of the Vallonia State Bank and was vice president and a stockholder in that institution. He was also interested in the Vallonia Canning Company, serving as president at the time of his death. He was serving his second term of three years as commissioner of Jackson county and would have completed his official duties in this capacity on January 1, 1918. Mr. Turmail was a member of the Vallonia German Lutheran church.

The funeral will be held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock from the Vallonia Lutheran church, conducted by the Rev. H. C. Miller, the pastor. Burial at the church cemetery.

HALDEN STEWART DEAD.

Former Local Boy Passes Away in Indianapolis.

Halden Stewart, son of Delmar Stewart, formerly of this city, died Tuesday, April 24, 1917, at 10:10 p. m. at the home of his sister, Mrs. A. J. Kaercher, 1722 Ludlow avenue, Indianapolis, of tubercular trouble with which he had been afflicted for the last year. Aged twenty-one years and eleven days. He was an exemplary young man, honest and upright, and will be greatly missed by his large circle of relatives and numerous friends. He is survived by his father, two brothers, George M. Stewart, a well known detective of Indianapolis, and Harold Stewart, of California, and three sisters, Mrs. Homer Harrod, Mrs. Henry Bruning and Mrs. A. J. Kaercher, all of Indianapolis, besides his aged grandfather, Firman Stewart, of Crothersville. The funeral will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kaercher Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the remains will be laid to rest in Crown Hill cemetery by the side of his mother.

PAYMENTS UNDER BARRETT LAW DUE

Installments for City Improvements Will be Delinquent After First Monday in May.

PAYABLE TO THE CITY CLERK

County Treasurer Belding Collects Large Sum in Taxes—City to Get Its Part Soon.

The spring installments of the semi-annual Barrett Law payments are now due and will become delinquent after the first Monday in May. These payments are made the same as taxes and the usual ten percent is added for delayed settlements. Barrett Law payments are made to the city treasurer and not to the county treasurer. Treasurer Gibson will send out statements within a few days of the amounts that are due. While he is not required to send out the blanks the custom was started several years ago and is convenient for property owners who are paying for sidewalk, street or sewer improvements on the ten-year plan.

The bonds are made out for a ten year period and twice a year the interest is paid. At one period one-tenth of the principal falls due and many of the amounts due on principal will be payable at the spring settlement. About 125 property owners in this city are paying for improvements under the Barrett Law. The accounts are kept separate from the other city receipts and the money paid on the bonds and the interest is turned over immediately by the city treasurer to the holders of the bonds.

Barrett Law bonds can be paid in full at either of the regular settlement period although six months notice in advance is required by law. Each year a number of the bonds are taken up by the property owners.

County Treasurer Belding completed his work in Seymour Wednesday afternoon and during the three days he had the duplicates here he collected more than $17,000. He was so busy during the time he was in the city that he did not have an opportunity to total the exact amount of the collections, and he is more than pleased with the results of the trial.

The city will share in its division of the tax money within a short time. The county treasurer is usually called upon for an advance settlement by the city treasurer so that the temporary loans can be lifted and the interest saved.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT ASKED TO STATE ITS WAR AIMS

Leading German Newspaper Editorials Express Dissatisfaction With Beclouded Issues.

By United Press.

The Hague, April 26—Dissatisfaction over Germany's failure to announce her war aims is openly expressed in German newspaper editorials reaching here today.

"It is deplorable," one leading paper declares, "that all declarations of the German government regarding war aims are unintelligible, indistinct and of many meanings. We have remarked this nearly every time the chancellor has spoken on the subject. In all these cases we have protested that such language is more harmful than beneficial to the cause of the German officials."

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank the relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy expressed during the sickness and death of our beloved wife, and daughter, Mrs. Edna V. Moritz. The words of consolation spoken by Father C. J. Conrad, the kindness of the undertaker, and the beautiful floral offerings will be ever remembered by the family. ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING IS HELD AT BEECH GROVE

Vernon is Rated by County Agent Cobb as Best Organized Township in Best Organized County of State.

One of the most enthusiastic meetings of the "bigger crops—more food" campaign of the Jackson County Food Commission was held last evening at the Beech Grove school house in Vernon township. The building was crowded with farmers of the Beech Grove neighborhood and their families, all anxious to learn how they can help in the county, state and nation-wide movement for more food that is on.

According to County Agent Cobb, who was present and addressed the meeting, Vernon township is the best organized township in what has been declared by those in charge of the state campaign to be the best organized county in the state. Committees were named for every branch of the work, and they have been actively at work and have their work outlined and well started. A. E. Murphy, agricultural teacher in the local high school, also addressed the meeting, and several of the audience made talks.

A drum corps made a tour of the neighborhood previous to the meeting and saw to it that every one in the vicinity knew that something was going on. Meetings have been arranged for other parts of the township for tonight and tomorrow night. Mr. Cobb was much pleased with the work that is being done in Vernon township, and looks for big results from that section of the county.

BRIDEGROOM OF TWO WEEKS MEETS WITH FATAL ACCIDENT

Joseph Hite, Thirty-two, Formerly of This City, Falls from Baggage Car on Southeastern Line.

Joseph Hite, aged thirty-two years, formerly of this city, was fatally injured late Wednesday afternoon when he fell from a baggage car at Westport. He was employed as a brakeman on the Southeastern Line. While the train was switching here he called at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Maggie Miller, Ewing street.

Hite was a bridegroom of two weeks and at the time of the accident he was hurrying from the car to the home of his bride with the intention of taking her to their new home for the first time. It is supposed he slipped. He fell under the coach and both legs were cut off. He was placed in an automobile to be taken to the county hospital at Columbus, but died before the machine had been driven seven miles. He leaves his young widow, one sister, Mrs. Laura Lane, of Atherton, Kas., and one brother, Homer Hite, of Terre Haute. His father and mother are both dead. He formerly lived here and has many friends in this city.

HOUSE EXPECTED TO ACT ON ARMY BILL TOMORROW

It Now Appears Certain That Both Branches of Congress Will Pass Conscription Measure.

By United Press.

Washington, April 26—The house will act on the army bill tomorrow. The senate will vote Saturday. Conscription seems certain to win. Debate on the question of raising 2,000,000 men by draft or volunteering in the house bill end tonight. This was decided today. By the agreement the house is to continue to talk today, then tomorrow Chairman Dent of the military committee, who opposes the President's draft plan and Representative Kahn of California ranking Republican member of the committee who is leading the President's fight, will make concluding arguments. A house poll indicated much of the opposition against the measure has vanished and that it will pass with a safe margin.

By United Press.

With the French Armies, April 26.—1,300 German prisoners and 180 machine guns were captured in one swoop of French forces, according to an announcement at general headquarters today. The total of all captures in fighting in that one sector was eleven cannon and 3,200 prisoners, including one entire regiment with all its officers except the colonel.

HIGH FOOD PRICES ARE NOT JUSTIFIED

This Finding Returned by Congressional Probe Into the Reasons for Soaring Prices.

SPECULATION IS AN ELEMENT

Shipments of Foodstuffs Were Abnormally Held up, According to Investigating Committee.

By United Press.

Washington, April 26—Results of the first congressional probe of soaring food prices throughout the nation were reported today. The conclusion reached is that "there is no just ground for such high prices of many products as are demanded of consumers at this time."

The report recommends that there is urgent need for organization of comprehensive marketing machinery. Municipal wholesale markets are recommended. The probe was conducted in Washington.

The probers found that reports of food shortages were misleading and their report found:

That prices in many cities were unusually high.

That the poor have been compelled to resort to strictest economy to provide food.

That the sale of ordinary cuts of meat have been discontinued.

That shipments of foodstuffs were abnormally held up and the food supply therefore, abnormally depleted.

That the element of speculation in food products has been one of the potent factors in enormous increases in prices.

That some one American—probably Herbert Hoover or Secretary of Labor Wilson—will probably become food dictator of the world shortly, was indicated today at the war conferences here. The conference made plans chiefly for a gigantic campaign to feed the allies. It was taken for granted that it will be the policy of the allies after America has made preliminary contributions of men, money, food and shipping to turn over to the United States absolute control of certain phases of the war.

That food will be one of the problems left entirely in American hands was considered certain. This will mean that one man or small group of men will be named by President Wilson to absolutely dominate the production and distribution of food in allies countries.

Former Premier Viviani, Marshal Joffre and other French representatives called on President Wilson during the morning. They were with the President only a few minutes. After greetings were exchanged Viviani called on Vice-President Marshall and Joffre called on American army officials.

VIOLENT GERMAN ATTACKS ON WIDE FRONT REPULSED

British Assail New Positions Near Gavrelle and French Hold Newly Won Ground.

By United Press.

London, April 26—Violent German attacks against both the French and British positions on a wide front were repulsed, the Paris and London war offices announced today. The British attacked new positions near Gavrelle and were repulsed with heavy enemy losses, General Haig reported. Two German attacks on a mile front were beaten back. The statement indicated that all along the French front the Germans were making violent attempts to loose the French grip on their newly won positions, the statement says.

Intensive Home Gardening.

Every home should have a garden and in many cases the problem is to find sufficient space. This is especially true in the city or town, where every foot of ground available is being used. I wish to submit a tentative planting plan for intensive gardening, giving the dates of the plantings and the distances and the methods of tillage. This is not to be a hard and fast guide but merely a help for every garden will reflect the individual and his tastes.

First Spring Planting.
This is made at the earliest possible time and should be in by now but it may be planted this late.

Vegetables.	Feet be-	Inches apart
	tween rows	in rows
Radishes	1	2
Turnips	1	2

Lettuce	1	1
Onion Sets	1	3

Head Lettuce	1½	9
Cabbage	1½	12 or 15
Cauliflower	1½	18
Second planting after all danger of frost is past.
*Parsnips	1	3

Cucumbers	4	4

Sweet Potatoes	3	6
Late Celery	4	3

*Seed radishes in with the parsnips to indicate the rows, they will be out of the way before the parsnips need the space. Parsnips come slow.

This is merely a suggestive plan indicating how close these rows may be grown. If the garden is to be tilled with a hoe the rows should never be any farther apart than is absolutely necessary. It takes almost the same amount of labor to tend the spot of ground whether it be planted intensively or extensively, therefore, it pays to have a compact garden if it is to be hand tilled.
This is proven to be true in the city or in the country. I do not mean to say that every gardener should grow what is mentioned above and not grow crops that are not mentioned but merely I have given this as a help because as stated above, the gardener should grow that which he likes and nothing else.

The data above are those discorns but 'Gets-It.' Put 2 drops

ond the corn begins to shrivel,

"Oh, Don't Touch It! It's So Sore!"
Use "Gets-It" and It Will Never Be Sore!

Instead of swelling up like a little white sponge. Then it loosens from your toe—and, glory hallelujah! the

Yes, "Gets-It" is the corn discovery of the age. More "Gets-It" is sold by many times than any other corn remedy in existence. Try it and you'll know the reason why. It takes two seconds to apply it, and it dries it once. That's all. Don't Today's Hoosier Oddity.

Indianapolis, April 26—George Delting, who admits he is a minister but denies he is a justice of the peace, appeared in police court today to answer to the charge of soliciting couples at the court house to tie wedding knots after they had procured their licenses. The law specifies justices of the peace must not solicit couples for marrying at the court house, hence Delting's strong contention that he is a minister. He said he became discouraged at the inroads made on his business by justices of the peace who solicited couples armed with marriage licenses.

"MODERN MAGIC" ON TAP AT INTERSTATE CO. OFFICE

Demonstration of Humphrey Automatic Gas Water Heater Attracts Crowd—Continues Three Days.

An interesting exhibition of "modern magic" opened today at the salesroom of the Interstate Public Service Company, and will continue through Friday and Saturday. The exhibition, which was witnessed by many Seymour people, is a demonstration of the Humphrey Automatic Gas Water Heater, and "modern magic" seems a very appropriate name for the work of this modern appliance for the home, which affords hot water at the turn of a faucet.

Miss Julia Kerkhof, local manager for the Interstate Company, who arranged for the three-day demonstration, has secured the services of Mr. Arthur Alexander, a factory representative of the Humphrey Company, who is in personal charge of the demonstration. Mr. Alexander has made a study of the summer hot water problem, and is well qualified to give advice along this line.

The Humphrey Automatic, which heats the water as it flows and heats it much cheaper than any other known method, is a great boon for the hot summer months, when a furnace fire is out of the question, but when hot water is wanted as much as in winter. An invitation is extended to every citizen to call at the Interstate Company salesroom tomorrow or Saturday and see the Humphrey water heater at work.

Most Eye Troubles

Are congenital; people were born with them. For these defects, there is just one relief—properly adjusted glasses. Nothing else can give even temporary relief.

When the eye ball is not perfectly formed—when it is too long or too short, the defects in refraction must be corrected by the proper lenses. We can diagnose any case of refractive error and determine the amount of that error. Then we can have the proper lenses ground to correct the error.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Best Dressed Woman in Town

Sue Payne had been dubbed our town's best dressed woman. The knowledge had been current for a number of years, and many of us wondered how she managed to live up to her reputation. She wasn't the possessor of unusually attractive features, having a rather too large nose and a too high forehead. And this forehead was made more pronounced by the way she wore her hair. Combed back straight from the face and brought low at the back of the neck. But she was one of these rare people who didn't have to have perfect features to attract strangers, and many said it was her manner. It undoubtedly was. She was always friendly and treated everyone alike. It didn't make any difference to Sue Payne whether you were a McAllister and lived on The Street or whether your dwelling faced the lower alley and you were known by the name of Jones; she treated you as her friend.

Just about everyone in the town was her friend, too. Oh, to be sure there were a few exceptions. For instance, there was fluffy, try-hard-to-do-it, little Mrs. Wilson, who plainly envied everything Sue attempted to do, and made no show of concealing it. None of us believed she could have if she tried for the feeling was too deep; but to do her justice, she didn't try, she did not want to add hypocrisy to the rest of her faults you see. This Mrs. Wilson was one of our townspeople who ran with the McAllister set and found it mighty hard to keep the pace. She couldn't do everything they did but somehow she did manage to make semi-annual trips to Chicago and New York to refurnish her wardrobe and invest in a number of superfluities in china, house-furnishings, etc.

This was the trouble. Mrs. Wilson always had the most expensive clothes, the latest fads and the most bon ton boots. Sue Payne never in her life paid more than thirty dollars for a suit, and half that for a dress. She wouldn't have felt comfortable in a pair of shoes that cost more than six dollars, yet anyone would have said Sue always wore her clothes like "they had cost a million," and always looked again as well dressed as Mrs. Wilson. Our opinions for the reasons of this were various. Some of us still clung to the thought that if Mrs. Wilson had more personal charm to add to beautiful, regular features and her expensive clothes, she would be as delightful as Sue, but Mrs. Donivan, my next door neighbor, converted all of us to her views one afternoon when several of us were discussing the subject.

"Did you ever notice," she began, "that every blessed time Nell Wilson gets something new, she always acts like it's new and wants us to fully realize that it is a New York product? To my notion, the art of being well dressed is not to feel that way at all but to be as unconscious of looking well as if you didn't."

We all considered this awhile. It really did explain a subtle difference in the two women but we were not really satisfied. "But when you stop to think of it all" someone suggested, "Nell has six complete outfits to Sue's half an outfit and she's bound to be the most attractive of the two, but maybe it's in another way. We could call Sue's 'personality' and Nell's 'individuality.'"

"That the worst thing that has been said yet," Mrs. Donivan argued. "If you can tell me where Nell Wilson has any individuality I wish you would do it. She doesn't go East and say to the clerks in these select shops, that she is always talking about, 'I want a dress that will be especially suited to just me, something unusual and a trifle plain.' I should say she does not. Instead it's probably 'What are they showing this season? I don't care what it costs and how becoming it is but if you're sure it's the very latest I'll take it.' Why every woman and girl anywhere that can afford it can get just the exact reproduction of anything Nell Wilson owns."

"How does Sue buy?" asked the woman who had started the argument.

"Why Sue is altogether different. When she plans to invest in some clothes she studies first what color she wants. It doesn't have to be the latest suggested by Vogue, either; she gets a shade of something that she knows she will be able to wear with advantage. Why you know that greyish brown suit she had this winter; any of the rest of us would have looked positively doleful in but not so Sue. It suited her color to perfection, and she knew it too. Then look at that hat she got to go with it, a soft felt of about the same shade and with those darling yellow Mercury wings. She knew what she was about all right."

Since then, if it's possible, we have contrasted the two women more than ever. And we can see without the least trouble that all the things Mrs. Donivan said were true. If Mrs. Wilson was dressed in the latest thing in, say, evening dresses, and the creation was a very decided shade of pink, the most natural thing for that person to do would be to combine with it a red vanity case or a red head dress; the little things are really what counts in making a person look well dressed and it was in these details that made Sue Payne a complete success as our town's best dressed woman.

Enchanting Bridal Millinery

Already June weddings are engaging the attention of those who must think out all the details of several bridal pageants, for there are changing fashions to be considered. Every bride cherishes the hope that her wedding procession may be impressive and beautiful and present one or two new elements of interest at least. And there are experts who recognize her wish and see to it that it may be granted. Millinery for her maids is almost the most important item that the bride has to consider, outside the details of her own costuming.

The airy, flower-trimmed and softly feminine styles for midsummer show many developments that promise charming headaddresses for the bridesmaid. The choice is not confined to hats, but their charm is so powerful that chances are in their favor. Hair braid and tucan, crepe georgette and malines, net and flowers go to make up the loveliest of mid-summer millinery. There never was a summer when bridesmaids could be more enchantingly dressed.

In the group of hats shown in the picture one, of hair braid, is a familiar, picturesque type that never fails to captivate everyone. It is of the laciest amethyst braid, bound with satin and with ties of amethyst colored velvet ribbon and a wreath of pink roses against the under brim at the side and back. Would be pretty in any of the light colors.

A hat with braid crown and double flounce of plaited crepe is very new and an ideal for the bridesmaids' wear. It has two bands of narrow ribbon about the crown, tied in a bow at the front where a cluster of small flowers is posed. Imagine it in any color that you may choose for a wedding—it is sure to be pretty.

The lovely hat of sand-colored crepe with a fall of scalloped crepe about the brim is an unusual model. The crown is trimmed with clusters of velvet raisins on their stems.

ASPARAGUS LOAF

1 can of asparagus, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 4 eggs 1 scant tablespoon gelatine, juice of 1 lemon, 1 pint of whipped cream, season with salt pepper and paprika. Heat butter in double boiler and strain flour (to which has been added water) into butter, stirring constantly until it thickens. Beat eggs stiff and pour over the butter mixture stirring constantly. Replace in the double boiler, cook until eggs are done, stirring until ready to remove from fire. Add dissolved gelatine (use water from asparagus) lemon juice and seasoning. When cool, add four kitchen spoonfuls of whipped cream. Line mould with asparagus tips, and pour in the custard putting layer of asparagus on top. Set on ice to congeal and serve with mayonnaise to which has been added lemon juice. Serve with meat course or as a salad.

RHUBARB DUMPLINGS

2 cups flour, 1½ cups finely cut rhubarb, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon lard, milk to make a soft dough, 1 cup lard. Mix dry ingredients; chop in lard and butter. Add milk gradually, making a very soft dough. Knead slightly and divide in eight equal parts, and roll and pat into rounds. Sprinkle the rhubarb with the cup of sugar, and add one tablespoonful to each round of dough; draw dough up round the fruit and pinch well to keep in the fruit and juice. Place in well-buttered pan or pudding dish, with smooth side up, adding one and one-half cups of water with two table-spoons of sugar dissolved in it. Place in hot oven and bake for forty-five minutes. Serve with a tart sauce.

BRAISED BEEF TONGUE

Put a fresh tongue into boiling water, and cook very slowly for two hours. Take from water and remove skin and roots. Shape and place in casserole, and surround with celery, onions, carrots and turnips—about half a cup of each. Pour over all about three cups of brown sauce made as follows: Brown two table-spoons of flour in two table-spoons of butter until well browned. Add gradually three cups of water in which the tongue was cooked. Season to taste with salt and pepper, and pour one cup strained tomato over all. Cover closely, and place casserole in oven or on top of range where it will cook slowly for two hours. Serve from casserole, serving each person with some of each vegetable with the sauce.

SAGO OR TAPIOCA PUDDING

Soak one cup of pearl tapioca or sago in enough cold water to cover for one hour, then add one quart of boiling water, and place in a double boiler. Cook until tapioca or sago is clear. Add two cups of brown sugar and a piece of butter the size of an egg, also one-fourth teaspoonful of ground cinnamon. Stir well and let the butter melt. Pare and core seven or eight sound, tart apples, allowing one to a person. Grease a pudding dish, set the apples in a row around the edge, pour the tapioca mixture over them, and bake in the oven until the apples are done. Serve with sweetened cream seasoned with nutmeg. Half of the quantity of tapioca would be sufficient for four or five apples.

RHUBARB SHORTCAKE

Sift together one pint of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and one tablespoonful of sugar. Rub in one and one-half table-spoonsful of butter. Break an egg into a cup and beat. Fill the cup with milk. Combine wet and dry ingredients. Divide the dough between two greased layer cake tins. Bake in a quick oven. Turn upside down, spread with a little butter and have ready a bowl of stewed rhubarb prepared as directed. Spread between the layers and put on top. Finish with a topping of whipped cream.

CINNAMON ROLLS

When the bread dough has raised and is ready for the tins, take out enough to make as many rolls as you wish. Roll out quite thin, spread over with softened butter or lard, then sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Roll up like a jelly roll, and cut off slices one inch thick. Lay flat in a greased pan, let rise until light and bake.

CAULIFLOWER WITH CHEESE

Prepare cauliflower and place on a dish for serving, head up and sprinkle with cheese, then with buttered crumbs. Pour one cup of thin white sauce round the cauliflower, and place in the oven to brown the crumbs and melt the cheese. Serve in a casserole.

THE MODERN CAR IS THE FAMILY CAR

Let the spirit of unselfishness join hands with common sense in buying your motor car. Your wife, your daughter, your son—haven't they the right to motoring pleasure as much as you? That is the added advantage of owning a Detroit Electric. So simple, so easy is it to drive that the whole family can enjoy it together—or singly.

Further—it is better business, if you want to put the matter on a dollars and cents basis, to own a car all the family can drive. For then you double, triple or quadruple the use you get from it as compared to the car you alone can operate.

It is a man's car. Drive it yourself and you will quickly prove its ample power, big mileage range (to miles on a single charge), its speed, its vigorous pick-up, its flexibility. And it is a woman's car in point of driving ease, comfort, quietness, availability. You'll both appreciate its freedom from need of service attention and its low cost of operation. CHAPTER XX.

The Call of Sun Rock.

In the golden glow of the autumn sun there came up the stream overlooked by the Sun Rock one day a man, a woman and a child in a canoe. Civilization had done for lovely Joan what it had done for many another wild flower transplanted from the depths of the wilderness. Her cheeks were thin. Her blue eyes had lost their luster. She coughed, and when she coughed the man looked at her with love and fear in his eyes. But now, slowly, the man had begun to see the transformation, and on the day their canoe pointed up the stream and into the wonderful valley that had been their home before the call of the distant city came to them, he noted the flush gathering once more in her cheeks, the fuller redness of her lips, and the gathering glow of happiness and content in her eyes. He laughed softly as he saw these things, and he blessed the forests. In the canoe she had leaned back, with her head almost against his shoulder, and he stopped paddling to draw her to him, and run his fingers through the soft golden masses of her hair.

"You are happy again, Joan," he laughed joyously. "The doctors were right. You are a part of the forests." "Yes, I am happy," she whispered, and suddenly there came a little thrill into her voice, and she pointed to a white finger of sand running out into the stream. "Do you remember—years and years ago, it seems—that Kazan left us here? She was on the sand over there, calling to him. Do you remember?" There was a little tremble about her mouth, and she added, "I wonder—where they—have gone."

The cabin was as they had left it. Only the crimson bakkeesh had grown up about it, and shrubs and tall grass had sprung up near its walls. Once more it took on life, and day by day the color came deeper into Joan's cheeks, and her voice was filled with its old wild sweetness of song. Joan's husband cleared the trails over his old trap-lines, and Joan and the little Joan transformed the cabin into home. One night the man returned to the cabin late, and when he came in there was a glow of excitement in Joan's blue eyes, and a tremble in her voice when she greeted him.

"Did you hear it?" she asked. "Did you hear—the call?"

He nodded, stroking her soft hair. "I was a mile back in the creek swamp," he said. "I heard it!"

Joan's hands clutched his arms. "It wasn't Kazan," she said. "I would recognize his voice. But it seemed to me it was like the other—the call that came that morning from the sand-bar, his mate?"

The man was thinking. Joan's fingers tightened. She was breathing a little quickly.

"Will you promise me this?" she asked, "Will you promise me that you will never hunt or trap for wolves?" "I had thought of that," he replied. "I thought of it—after I heard the call. Yes, I will promise."

Joan's arms stole up about his neck. "We loved Kazan," she whispered. "And you might kill him—or her."

Suddenly she stopped. Both listened. The door was a little ajar, and to them there came again the wailing mate-call of the wolf. Joan ran to the door. Her husband followed. Together they stood silent, and with tense breath Joan pointed over the starlit plain.

"Listen! Listen!" she commanded. "It's her cry, and it came from the Sun Rock!"

She ran out into the night, forgetting that the man was close behind her now, forgetting that little Joan was alone in her bed. And to them, from miles and miles across the plain, there came a wailing cry in answer—a cry that seemed a part of the wind, and that thrilled Joan until her breath broke in a strange sob.

Farther out on the plain she went and then stopped, with the golden glow of the autumn moon and the stars shimmering in her hair and eyes. It was many minutes before the cry came again, and then it was so near that Joan put her hands to her mouth, and her cry rang out over the plain as in the days of old.

"Kazan! Kazan! Kazan!" At the top of the Sun Rock, Gray Wolf—gaunt and thinned by starvation—heard the woman's cry, and the call that was in her throat died away in a whine. And to the north a swiftly moving shadow stopped for a moment, and stood like a thing of rock under the starlight. It was Kazan. A strange fire leaped through his body. Every fiber of his brute understanding was afire with the knowledge that here was home. It was here, long ago, that he had lived, and loved, and fought—and all at once the dreams that had grown faded and indistinct in his memory came back to him as real living things. For, coming to him faintly over the plain, he heard Joan's voice!

In the starlight Joan stood, tense and white, when from out of the pale mists of the moon-glow he came to her, cringing on his belly, panting and wind-run, and with a strange whining note in his throat. And as Joan went to him, her arms reaching out, her lips sobbing his name over and over again, the man stood and looked down upon them with the wonder of a new and greater understanding in his face. He had no fear of the wolf-dog now. And as Joan's arms hugged Kazan's great shaggy head up to her he heard the whining gasping joy of the beast and the sobbing whispering voice of the girl, and with tensely gripped hands he faced the Sun Rock.

"Good heavens!" he breathed. "I believe—it's so!"

As if in response to the thought in his mind, there came once more across the plain Gray Wolf's mate-seeking cry of grief and of loneliness. Swiftly as though struck by a lash Kazan was on his feet—oblivious of Joan's touch, of her voice, of the presence of the man. In another instant he was gone, and Joan flung herself against her husband's breast, and almost fiercely took his face between her two hands. "Now do you believe?" she cried pantingly. "Now do you believe in the God of my world—the God I have lived with, the God that gives souls to the wild things, the God that—that has brought us all—together—once more—home!"

His arms closed gently about her. "I believe, my Joan," he whispered. "And you understand—now—what it means. 'Thou shalt not kill!'"

"Except that it brings us life—yes, I understand," he replied.

Her warm, soft hands stroked his face. Her blue eyes, filled with the glory of the stars, looked up into his. "Kazan and she—you and I—and the baby! Are you sorry—that we came back?" she asked.

So close he drew her against his breast that she did not hear the words he whispered in the soft warmth of her hair. And after that, for many hours, they sat in the starlight in front of the cabin door. But they did not hear again that lonely cry from the Sun Rock. Joan and her husband understood.

"He'll visit us again tomorrow," the man said at last. "Come, Joan, let us go to bed."

Together they entered the cabin. And that night, side by side, Kazan and Gray Wolf hunted again in the moonlit plain.

The Dog Ordinance.

Editor of Republican: Concerning the case of Marion Monroe who pleaded guilty in city court to harboring a dog, permit me to say that Mr. Monroe got the impression from the city attorney that it would cost him $6 whether he beat the case by going to trial or not, and that is the reason he pleaded guilty. I will prove that Mr. Monroe gave Mr. Miller the dog on the last meeting night of the Junior Order in February and the dog came back to Mr. Monroe's premises and he tied the dog up until Mr. Miller came from the country and got the dog some three days later. Mr. Monroe did not feel like paying the $2 and deprive his family of same and go delinquent in his lodge dues. Please advise the city officials that I have a dog for protection on West Second street that has no tag on and does not run at large to cause a public nuisance like many that are running at large without tags, and I am ready to meet them half way when they get ready to prosecute.

Respectfully,
